From Your Editor

Welcome to our 2020 Valentine's Day issue.

This is the time of the year when we celebrate love, in this case, our love for the EFOs we own and hope to own. To celebrate, head to your favorite area where you spend time with your stamps, and shut out all interruptions, and attempt to reach your personal nirvana. Now, isn't that a wonderful idea!

I had particular fun preparing this issue, since, in addition to our regulars, we also have an article by Dr. Stanley Robboy, on a subject that is a favorite of mine, the 24¢ stamp depicting John Trumbull's "Declaration of Independence" – which, Dr. Robboy points out, does not depict the signing ceremony, but rather it's presentation by a five-man committee to the Continental Congress – never too late to learn something new. Scott 120 is out of my budget range -at least a respectable copy is-, but it is fun to read the article and learn about its creation, controversies and all the essays that exist. Maybe one day I'll settle for an essay!

Fortunately, the painting has been used on stamps several times, not only on the reprint (Scott 130), but also on Scott 1687 and Scott 1794. Come to think of it, I wonder how the Post Office managed to use the same subject on two different issues so close to each other. There must be a story behind that. And, of course, the $2 bill has the same subject on its back. One of my plans is to buy 4 uncut $2 bills from the U.S. mint and mount them side-by-side with stamps. Here is a picture of the $2 bill from the Wikipedia website:

Until next time, enjoy the hunt!

Letters to the Editor

James Nance writes: I have a pretty good collection of EFOs. It includes mostly imperf error pairs and has some color omitted errors. Most are in the $100-$300 range. I have a few rarer ones like a block of four of the 1988 Arctic Explorers black omitted. I'm not wealthy but I just love collecting and knowing about these. The Datz error catalog has the basics, but it's fun and sometimes necessary to know more details about specific issues. For example: Take the 1973 Copernicus yellow omitted error. Datz says each example has an APS certificate and this is proof of genuine stamps. However, each of these have JCs on the back or so I have been told. But now there are apparently genuine stamps with PF certs, and they have no JCs on the back from what I understand. So, there are more than 100 genuine stamps than Datz indicates – unless one wants to argue with the PF.

Best wishes,
James

P.S. It would certainly be interesting if one sent his PF-certified Copernicus to the APS for certification and see if an APS cert is issued!

Editor's note: Please send me any comments on James' assertion regarding the presence of JCs and any related information on the Copernicus issue. I will share the information in a future issue. Also, apologies for the delayed publication of this letter!

Overprints on British India Stamps: Faridkot State

Joseph Monteiro and Anna A. Castelino

Collecting stamps is more than meets the eye, particularly those of British India. It needs a great deal of study and is often quite extensive and challenging. First, there are the stamps of British India (beginning with India Postage/East India Postage/India Postage) and the same stamps overprinted (e.g. Service, O.H.M.S., etc.) for use by the government. Second there are British India stamps overprinted ('POSTAL SERVICE.') for fiscal use. Third, there are British India stamps overprinted ('I.P.N.') for Indian Postal Notes. Fourth, there are British India stamps overprinted for local use ('L'), municipal use ('M'), etc. Fifth, there are British India stamps overprinted with the name of the Conventional Indian States (Chamba, Faridkot, Gwalior, Jind, Nabha, and Patiala). Sixth, there are British India stamps overprinted for use by Indian Military Forces used abroad, e.g. China Expeditionary Forces and Indian Expeditionary Forces (C.E.F. and I.E.F., etc.). Seventh, there are British India stamps overprinted for use in certain foreign countries (Bahrain, British East Africa, Burma, British Somaliland, Kuwait, Muscat, Pakistan, Strait Settlements and Zanzibar) and the same stamps overprinted (e.g. Service, O.H.M.S., etc.) for use by their respective governments. These can be categorized into: stamps used for internal postage and fiscal postage (1-4); stamps used by Indian states (5); stamps used by Indian personnel abroad (6); and stamps used by other countries (7). Things can get much more complex if one considers other categories such as stamps overprinted for telephone, telegraph, court use, etc. To add to the complexity of studying Indian stamps there are also revenue stamps and telegraph stamps. If this has not yet discouraged philatelists or goaded them to study these stamps further, there are stamps printed in Indian languages which will undoubtedly intimidate the faint of heart from even trying to understand what is written on them, if they do not understand Indian languages. There is still more - different papers, gums, watermarks, perforations, etc. If this has not yet succeeded in discouraging the faint of heart there are things that the eye cannot even see - different printers, paper fluorescence, etc.

Not to discourage philatelists from studying Indian stamps, in this article the overprint on one of the Conventional Indian States which did not release too many overprinted British Indian stamps is examined. This Conventional Indian State is the State of Faridkot. As mentioned above, there were five other Conventional Indian States which released overprints on British India stamps Chamba, Jind, Nabha, Patiala and Gwalior (all in the Punjab). This is because in the late 1800s, the British Government entered into "postal conventions" or agreements with the Hill State of Chamba, with Gwalior and the four Cis-Sutlej Sikh States of Faridkot, Jhind, Nabha and Patiala [1]. We shall begin first with a brief history of this State. Second, the stamps overprinted for use in Faridkot will be examined. Third, some of the errors commonly reported are reviewed. This is followed by a brief conclusion.

Brief History of Faridkot State

"Faridkot State, with its capital at Faridkot, was a Princely State of Punjab. The State was established in 1763, ruled by a Jatt Sikh Brar Dynasty and was an offspring of Kotkapura. Faridkot was occupied by Ranjit Singh of the Sikh Empire in 1803 but had to be returned to the former rulers in 1809 on the behest of the British. Faridkot came under British Suzerainty when ancestral lands confiscated by the Ruler of Nabha were returned in 1846 after the First Sikh War of 1845/1846 as well as for services rendered to the British Raj in administering Punjab. For the support in overcoming the Indian Mutiny of 1857, the Ruler of Faridkot was accorded a 11-gun Salute as per the rules of precedence in the Imperial Durbar" [2].

It is believed that the first post office in the State was opened around the 1850s by Raja Wazir Singh. The postal system at this time was even new to India having been introduced by Lord Dalhousie. Wazir Singh, who was very anxious to modernize his state, did not want to lag behind. So, to improve postal service within the State postal conventions were signed between the British Government and the State on 30 November 1886 and 1 October 1896. Under these agreements, the British Government supplied surcharged British Indian stamps to the State at cost price, which were then sold to the public for inland postage [3].

British India Stamps of Faridkot

From 1886 – 1900, British India stamps were overprinted for use in Faridkot State. Eleven values with distinct designs of Queen Victoria stamps were overprinted: 3 pies, ½ a, 1a, 2a, 3a, 4a, 6a, 8a, 12a, 1R and 1R. The overprint consists of the words FARIDKOT STATE, one word beneath the other (the latter word centered with respect to the first word) in the centre of the second half of the stamp. It appears that the two words were printed simultaneously rather than separately because no spacing differences or shifts in or between the two words have been noticed. The six annas overprinted stamp appears with both shades (bistre brown; and olive bistre). Excluding the 3 pies and 12a stamps, the others were overprinted for official or government use with the word SERVICE at the top of the stamp. The stamps are printed on watermarked paper with the Star of India watermark (i.e. one large star in the centre). The Queen Victoria stamps were overprinted on sheets of 240 stamps consisting of two panes, each pane having 120 stamps (10 rows and 12 columns) with probably the exception of the 6 annas stamp which were printed in sheets of 320 stamps (four panes of 80 stamps). The reason is because the 6 annas stamp was part of the definitive stamps issued for an earlier period which were all printed in a sheet format of 320.

The overprint FARIDKOT STATE is usually well centred and occasionally shifts to the left or right have been found. The overprint SERVICE at the top of the stamp can also appear to the right or left but what is most noticeable is the distance of the overprint from the top border of the stamp on some of the overprinted stamps, as a result the gap between SERVICE and FARIDKOT STATE is very noticeable. These Queen Victoria stamps and the stamps for official use are shown in the illustrations.

Flaws or Errors on British India Stamps of Faridkot

One source states "The errors in the Faridkot stamps are fortunately few." A brief description of the well known flaws or errors is given hereafter with some illustrations hereafter:

1)  $\frac{1}{2}$ a to 1R – Flawed overprint with 'FARIDKCT' instead of 'FARIDKOT'. In the overprint 'KCT' appears instead of 'KOT'. It is a constant flaw with one stamp misspelled in each sheet of 240 stamps. It has been reported that this flaw occurred on the - 8th printing of this stamp and 200 errors of this stamp exist on all values. I suspect that the master plate used in the 8th printing was defective. If it is not a constant error, it is likely that the master plate got damaged during the printing of some of the sheets and a part of the letter O broke off resulting in the letter C.

2) ?a – Flawed overprint with a small 'A' in FARIDKOT. The source that reported this flaw indicates that the small A is likely to be because of a broken type.

3) ?a – Flawed overprint with a shorter TAT in FARIDKOT STATE. The source that reported this flaw indicates that the TAT alphabets are shorter than the other alphabets in the overprint. It is believed that it came from the 6th printing.

4) 6a – Flawed overprint with an 'I' before 'STATE'. In the overprint 'I' appears before STATE.

5) 6a – Flawed overprint with missing 'F' in 'FARIDOT'. This stamp with the flawed overprint was offered for sale by Grosvenor Auctions (page 126).

6) 6a – Flawed overprint 'SERVYIOE' instead of SERVICE. 'Y' appears instead of 'V' and 'O' appears instead of 'C' in the overprint on the 6 annas stamp. The source that reported this flaw indicates that this error is rare.

7) ?a – Flawed overprint with a curious shaped 'C' in the overprint SERVICE. The source that reported this flaw indicates that its curious shaped C is likely to be because of a broken type.

8) 6a – Flawed overprint with missing 'E' in 'SERVICE' (i.e. the last E in SERVICE). It has been described in Scott as #O8b (2018, Value $4,500.00). Unused, HR, Fine. 6a Victoria with missing "E" in service. A 2018 PF Cert. #552329 states "the overprint is counterfeit."

9)  $\frac{1}{2}$ a – Flawed overprint with "SEP.VICE" (broken "R") and "KCT" (broken "O"), Stanley Gibbons describes this flaw as follows: "1887-98  $\frac{1}{2}$ a deep green, left marginal block of 4 from Dec 1898 printing R3-4/1-2, showing varieties "SEP.VICE" (broken "R") and "KCT" (broken "O") se-tenant on lower pair, o.g. (varieties unmounted). Stains on reverse of margin, and R4/2 with minor crease, neither affecting fine fresh appearance. Only 51 sheets printed, and rare in such a block. Ex Sturton, formerly with RPS cert 31,990 (not present)."

10) 1a – Flawed overprint with FARIDKOT STATE double. This flaw was described as follows: "India FARIDKOT State 1903-6 QV 1a OVERPRINT DOUBLE, ONE ALBINO MNH block SG O2c."

11) 2a and 6a – Flawed overprint with placement of the 'SERVICE' overprint higher than the normal service overprint on stamps creating a larger space between the two overprints SERVICE and FARIDKOT STATE. As a result, the space between the two overprints is very noticeable, so noticeable that the two types of overprints have received special catalogue status in some catalogues. It is more noticeable on stamps where the FARIDKOT OVERPRINT appears slightly higher. This spaced flaw variety is likely to exist on the other nine values.

12) 6a – Flawed overprint with 'SERVICE' overprint badly shifted to the left. As a result, part of the overprint 'SE' appears on the right side of the stamp.

13)  $\frac{1}{2}$ a to 1R – Flawed overprints with PRINT SHIFTS of one or more of the overprints (i.e., SERVICE or/and FARIDKOT STATE). Many of these print shifts are small, sometimes to the right or left and sometimes higher or lower, nevertheless they are noticeable.

Notwithstanding, the limited number of flaws described above there are stamps with shades of colour. These have been noted on most values and some have even achieved catalogue status for example the 6 annas (bistre brown; and olive brown) and the 8 annas (mauve; and magenta).

Concluding Remarks

In this article, the flaws on British India stamps overprinted for use in Faridkot State in the Punjab were reviewed. Not many flaws have been found confirming the opinion of one writer that few flaws exist (a more detailed listing of flaws can be found in some specialized catalogues). This does not imply that the study of early Indian postage stamps is easy as this was one of the Conventional Indian States where very few overprinted stamps of British India were issued. The study can be advanced further by reviewing the placement of the two overprints in relation to each other. Once again, as has been stated in our other earlier article, one should take an analytical and educational approach to the study of philately, it makes the study much more interesting.

Doubling of Plate Finishers' Initials

David Hunt

Two people are involved in making a printing plate from the master die. The siderographer uses a press to make the transfer roll from the master die and then lays out the images on the plate using the transfer roll. Then the plate finisher smooths out any marks from the transfer roll and burnishes any scratches. Starting in 1906 with Scott 319 up to Scott 650 in 1928 it was the practice for both the siderographer and plate finisher to put their initials on the plate. This was done only on flat plates and on most, but not all of them. The initials appear once on each plate, so they are rarer than plate numbers which could occur up to eight times on a plate.

The siderographer had a press available to impress his initials but the plate finisher did not and so had to use a hand-held punch. He may have hit the punch more than once in order to make a good impression and it is possible that the punch 'bounced' between hammer blows resulting in the doubling of the initials seen on the illustrated stamp. I don't know how common doubled initials were, but I suspect their survival rate is low as collectors did not save them like they did plate numbers.

W.E.S. are the initials of plate finisher Walter E. Spring. ♦

Great American Stamp Show – August 20-23 – Hartford, CT

As many of you are aware, the American Philatelic Society, in partnership with the American Topical Association and the American First Day Cover Society, will be sponsoring the Great American Stamp Show. Your Board is considering whether to hold a meeting as well as hosting a booth. The reason for having a booth is to recruit new members as well as answer any questions related to the EFOCC, both from members and potential members. The show organizers' expectation is that the booth would be staffed at least 80% of the time

We need members who can help and hope that you can help out with any aspect of EFOCC's participation. This could be staffing the EFOCC booth for a few hours, providing input into and helping out with the organization of the meeting, providing publicity by sending out emails and postcards to potentially interested collectors, helping out with communications related to the show. You tell us how you can and wish to contribute.

The EFO Collector | www.efocc.org

If you are able to help or just wish to tell us that you will attend the Show or the EFOCC meeting, please drop a note to Dave Hunt or Cemil Betanov, by email or snail mail, to their addresses listed on page 4.

We will provide additional details on EFOCC's show presence in the next two issues due before the Show. ♦

Focusing on the 24¢ Stamp Depicting John Trumbull's Painting of the Declaration of Independence

Stanley J. Robboy

We all collect for different reasons. Physician portraits on stamps fascinate me. This hobby affords me to learn about history in general and specifically the history of medicine, the technical process by which stamps are made, and to experience the inherent beauty of the stamps, especially the freaks, errors, and inverts. This essay concentrates on the historically important 1869 series, the first bicolor-ever production of a United States stamp. It features John Trumbull's oil painting, which contrary to the popular belief that it depicts the signing ceremony of the Declaration of Independence, is actually a romanticized imaginary image of the five-man committee presenting their draft of the Declaration to the Continental Congress [1], an event that took place on June 28, 1776. The Declaration had 56 signatories [2]. The painting portrays 47 of them, all of whom the tiny engraving captured (Figure 1). The signatories included five physicians, three of whom appear in the stamp (Josiah Bartlett of New Hampshire, Benjamin Rush of Pennsylvania, and Oliver Wolcott of Connecticut) and two who were not (Matthew Thornton of New Hampshire and Lyman Hall of Georgia).

Most of the illustrations shown are from past auctions conducted at the Siegel Galleries in New York City during the past half century (and reprinted with their permission) or in my personal collection. Much of the narrative comes directly from the Siegel catalogue prepared for the March 15, 2016 sale of the Don David Price collection of United States Bicolored Postage Issues of 1869, 1873 and 1901 [3].

The 1869 pictorial issue was a transformative set of stamps created during a period of historic transition. The Civil War had ended four years earlier. President Johnson's postmaster general, Alexander Randall, began the process to design the 1869 Pictorial stamps with their novel shapes and imagery, and John A. J. Creswell, Ulysses S Grant's new postmaster general, completed them. Surprisingly, the public spurned the 1869's, which the 1870 Issue, bearing the traditional portraits of statesmen, war heroes and Founding Fathers, quickly replaced.

Controversy also mired the four-year 1868 printing contract. Four security printers had submitted bids: the American Bank Note Company (prior to consolidation), Butler & Carpenter (the successor firm to Toppan, Carpenter & Co. and printers of revenue stamps since 1862), George T. Jones, and the National Bank Note Company (the contract printers since 1861). In July 1868 the Post Office Department awarded the contract to National, despite Butler & Carpenter's lower bid.

During the bidding process, National argued they should win the contract based on their ability to grill stamps, using Charles F. Steel's patented grilling machine, and since Butler & Carpenter lacked fireproof production and storage facilities. In fact, just four years later, Butler's Philadelphia plant—the Dr. D. Jayne & Son building, named for the patent medicine manufacturer—burned to the ground.

Butler & Carpenter vigorously protested the Post Office Department's decision for months. It is also possible that Butler firm was behind a public smear campaign to discredit the stamps. Contemporary articles criticized the 1869's shapes, designs and especially the adhesive gum's unreliability.

By September 1869 the decision had been made to replace the 1869 Pictorial stamps with a new, more conventional issue. The postmaster general's report (November 15, 1870) explains that the 1869's failed to give satisfaction to the public, on account of their small size, their unshapely form, the "inappropriate designs, the difficulty of cancelling the stamps efficiently, and the inferior gum quality used in the manufacturing process." Considering the exalted position the 1869 Pictorial Issue has occupied in philately for nearly 150 years, it is remarkable that these stamps elicited such negative comments from officials and the public.

The 1869 Pictorial Designs

The Postal Reform movement of the 1840's and 50's and Reconstruction intended to help the war-torn nation heal; images of America's past and symbols of forward-looking communication played parts in the symbolic imagery chosen for the 1869 designs.

Unlike their predecessors, the ten 1869 stamps were designed in an almost square format. The final 1¢ through 12¢ values were printed in sheets of 300—two panes of 150—instead of the regular 200-stamp sheet format. The final 15¢, 24¢, 30¢ and 90¢ values were printed in sheets of 100 in two colors, requiring separate plates and printing for the frame and vignette colors. All of the stamps were to be grilled.

Three of the ten final 1869 stamps had traditional portraits: the 1¢ Franklin, 6¢ Washington and 90¢ Lincoln, the highest denomination and one of the four bicolored stamps. The other values represented a radical departure from the portraiture of all previous issues. The theme of improved postal communication was chosen for three values: the 2¢ postal carrier on horseback; the 3¢ locomotive train, possibly to celebrate the imminent completion of the transcontinental railroad; and the 12¢ S.S. Adriatic, the Collins line transatlantic steamer, which was used to carry mail to and from England. The vignettes on the 15¢, 24¢ and original 30¢ Burgoyne essay are intricately engraved depictions of historical events.

The 24¢ Bicolored 1869 Pictorial Design and Engravers

The vignette of the 24¢ stamp was initially adopted for the 10¢.

The overall design is attributed to an “E. Pitcher,” who speculatively was the daughter of a family known to the engraver, and whom she assisted in the 1869 issue’s early design phase.

The Scottish-born James Smillie (1807-1885), one of National’s most talented engravers, made the vignette. Previously a partner with Rawdon, Wright and Hatch, Smillie joined National in 1861, and shortly after engraving the 1869’s he moved to the American Bank Note Company.

Douglas S. Ronaldson (1825-1902) designed and engraved the frames. He had moved from England to Philadelphia in 1840 and was working as an engraver in 1858. National employed him as early as July 1868 and he continued with the American Bank Note Company until 1897, after which he worked for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing until his death in 1902.

J. C. Kenworthy engraved the lettering. He worked for the National as early as 1859 and perhaps as late as 1875.

The Stamp Itself

Originally, the Declaration was to appear on the 10¢, but was moved later to the definitive 24¢.

The initial essays (116-E2a) were produced as dies on India, sunk on card in the test colors black, carmine, dim rose, dull scarlet, red orange, orange yellow (Figure 2a), red brown (Figure 2b), orange brown, green, blue and gray.

The next essays (116-E2b) were dies on India, cut to stamp size in black (Figure 3a), and in the test colors red orange, blue green, dim rose (Figure 3b), brown, buff, dull scarlet and possibly others.

Later, the vignette was changed to that used for the 24¢ stamp (Scott 120). The design is nearly as issued, but shading under leaves at top of frame and ribbon over “TWENTY” is unfinished. The value numerals are small and the stamp at this time is a single color (120-E1) (Figure 4).

The 120-E2 24¢ has a small numeral design in a single color. The stamps in the E2a grouping have an 8 mm-high band of colored lines 31mm long overprinted above and below the vignette (120-E2a). Examples are shown with brown-orange

Some specimens were used to test different colors (120-E2b) (Figure 6) or tinted papers (120-E2c-g), e.g., dull yellowish tinted paper and salmon-red tinted paper (Figure 7).

The stamp 120-E3a was printed with a bicolor design largely with black and green, but also with combinations of a red, violet or green vignette and green, rose, or violet frames (Figure 8). The vignette was printed separately and mounted in place.

The 120-E3b shows the frame only with 3 border lines around the vignette space (Figure 9a). The 120-E3c frame has only two border lines around the vignette space as issued (Figure 9b). The 120-E3b and E3c were frame dies on cards or sunk on India, respectively. The frame in E3b was in black, light green or dark green.

The 120-TC1 illustrated was pulled in one impression from a single die incorporating both the frame and vignette (Figure 10). A similar unified die was created to make Small Numeral essays. This proof with the large numerals is exceedingly rare. The Scott Catalogue also lists an “e” type in black.

The 120-P1 is a 24¢ in green & violet, large die on India paper. The 120-P2 24¢ is green & violet, Roosevelt album small die on white wove paper and the 120-P2a 24¢ as green & violet, Panama Pacific small die on yellowish wove paper. 120-P3 24¢ is green & violet, plate on India, while the 120-P4 24¢ is green & violet, plate on card. The five proofs shown are from separate printings with differing shades and cards of varying thickness (1879, 1885, 1890, 1893 and 1894) (Figure 12).

Rare specimens had double grills and occasionally even no grill (120a).

1869 Bicolor Stamp Production

Sheets of each 1869 bicolored stamp were printed from two separate frame and vignette plates. The first printing in March 1869 had a frame plate in green and numbered 20 and a vignette plate numbered 20 and in violet. The second printing, two months later used the same frame plate and number, but a new vignette plate numbered 24 and also in violet.

The 1869 Pictorial stamps were first placed on sale at the New York Post Office on March 23. Stamps from the second 1869 printing were in circulation by May 1869. Based on Post Office Department records, the quantities available of the 24¢ were 235,250.

On September 6, 1869, the New York Tribune and New York Herald reported for the first time that the 1869 Pictorial Issue was to be replaced. By March-April 1870, only one year after the 1869's made their appearance, the new 1870 Portrait series was issued.

In 1875 the U.S. Post Office Department ordered a new printing for the Re-Issue and Special Printing program. The printers had the original frame die on hand and used it to create a new frame plate. Again, the frames had no ornament or shading lines. This time, however, the printers did not bother to add them to each position.

The color is more pronounced in the 130 and the stamp lacks the grill (Figure 16), but otherwise is virtually identical to the 120, other than for lower market value, which may explain unhappily why several stamps I purchased years ago as 120s became 130 when expertized.

Several stamps from the 1969 series had unusual dispositions. 120S-A is hand-stamped and shows a slightly doubled overprint from a bounced impression (Figure 18).

In the late 1870's and early 1880's the Post Office Department responded to requests for samples by sending out some of the available card proofs. In four recorded instances the receiving country applied the "Specimen" handstamp. One is a Plett Type 3, Inverted "Specimen" Chessylite Blue Handstamped (Figure 19, left). The second, a 21.5mm tall black hand-stamped overprint, is from the British Post Office Archive (Figure 19, right).

The first published report of any 1869 invert error appeared in the December 20, 1870, issue of J. Walter Scott's American Journal of Philately. Based on then applicable mail rates, most of the used 24¢ inverts were probably found on covers in England and France. Siegel records document that currently there are known four unused, 83 used singles, one used pair, one on cover and the unique block of four, for a total of 94 copies of the perforated 24¢ invert. There are only 100 known inverts from the single sheet discovered of the P4 proof state (Figure 13). ☀

Auction Notes

David Hunt

As always, I have tried to give this auction enough variety to tempt everyone. One of my favorite types of EFO is the reverse offset (or setoff). There are two of these in this auction: lots 2 and 27. This is a less common type of EFO, so they don't appear in the auction very frequently. There are also many misperforated stamps in the auction. In my opinion the best misperfs are two-way misperfs due to their visual appearance. There are five two-way misperfs in this auction: lots 12, 13, 86, 105 and 147.

Lots 41, 110 and 111 are 'almost' gutter pairs, though if you have paid attention to John Hotchner's columns you know that while 'almost' counts in the game of horseshoes, it does not count in EFOs. However, true gutter pairs are very scarce so sometimes we collectors have to take what we can get. Lot 101 is an interesting variety. It is a constant variety listed in the Scott catalogue and is quite scarce as it only occurs on one stamp on one plate and there were 12 different plates used to print this issue. The variety is a red dot, or 'snowball', just in front of the ski jumper's hands. In the auction lot it appears in the center top stamp of the block.

A type of EFO that is not often in the auction is a paper foldover before perforating creating crazy perfs. There are several in this auction although the crazy perfs are only in the margin: lots 123, 125, 140 and 151.

Lot 138 is of interest because at first glance it looks like a misperf, but note that the brown litho background is properly registered relative to the perfs. It is the engraved brown color that is shifted up. You may also note that lots 53 and 142 have similar major misperfs and they may well have come from the same sheet, so do you want a single or a ZIP block?

I have said before that EFOs on postal stationery seem to take a back seat in the EFO world. That is too bad, but it does mean that postal stationery EFOs can be more affordable. Towards the end of this auction there is an airletter with the die cutting inverted relative to the printing. Scott chooses not to call this a major error but does at least list the variety. Our past president, Jerry Kasper, had a tremendous collection of airletters which he exhibited. When his collection was sold at auction a few years ago I had hoped to acquire one or two of the errors that were in it, but my bids didn't come close to being successful. The lot in this auction, though, is modestly priced.

EFOCC Auction Rules for Consignors

Preparing Lots

Please use a blank form from a recent copy of the EFO Collector. Photocopies are fine. Please use a separate form for each lot.

Secure each lot to the front of the form; attach large lots to the reverse side. Protect all items with mounts, glassine, etc., and stiffeners, if necessary, but be sure item/items can be easily removed by Auction Director for examination and/or photographing. Do not use staples. Attach each item so that the description can be easily read. A simple and easy way to mount lots is to do so on dealer sales cards, or in glassines mounted face down for easy removal.

Include a reserve (minimum bid) or write "none". Lots may be revised to accurately describe items; or returned if necessary. Your name and EFOCC number must be on the consignment form, however, to preserve anonymity, these are removed from the consignment sheet before sending item to successful bidders.

Send consignments to David Hunt, 45 Fairway Drive, Denver, PA 17517. Use insured or registered U. S. Mail.

Consignor Fees

Consignor commission is 10% of the hammer price, with a minimum cost of 50¢ per lot.

Unsold lots incur a 50¢ fee per lot, and the consignor pays return postage and insurance.

Expenses and printing constraints make it impractical to picture every lot, especially those which are large in size. The EFOCC will exercise discretion in picturing lots.

Consignor Special Instructions

To save postage and labor, EFOCC can automatically re-submit unsold lots with lower minimums in a future auction, if you instruct EFOCC clearly what to do.

If you send duplicate or very similar lots, it is consignor's responsibility to state clearly if you would like to have these placed in different sales. Generally, EFOCC places all items received in the same sale to minimize paperwork.

Consignment/Payment Timing

EFOCC receives consignments continually and prepares them for subsequent sales, roughly on a first-in/first-out basis. However, large lots may be spread over several auctions.

After the close of each sale, unsold lots are offered to bidders on a first come-first served basis for $1 over the reserve with no buyer's commission or postage. This increases total sales, makes more bidders happy, and sells more lots for consignors, all for very little additional effort.

EFOCC needs approximately one month after auction's closing date to determine successful bidders, prepare and mail invoices, mail lots, receive payment from winners, list after sale lots and accept their offers, etc., etc. Thus, consignors can expect to receive payment about four to six weeks after an auction closes.

EFOCC Auction Rules for Bidders

How to Bid

Please bid on a consignment form from a recent EFO Collector. A photocopy is fine. Include your EFOCC membership number. For new bidders and non-EFOCC members, please include your APS membership number. Sign your bid sheet to acknowledge acceptance of the EFOCC auction rules; unsigned forms cannot be accepted. Submit bids to David Hunt, 45 Fairway Drive, Denver, PA 17517, e-mail to dhhunt@ptd.net.

Bidding Precautions

Minimum bids are not estimates, but are true reserves established by the consignors. Bids below the listed reserve will not be accepted.

Bidders are responsible for inaccurate bids. Bids do not have to be typed, but, please, be sure numbers and amounts are clearly legible. Confirm phone and e-mail bids with a written bid sheet.

Auction Bid Increments

Bid Level	Increment
$1 to $9.99	$0.50
$10 to $49	$1.00
$50 to $99	$2.50
$100 to $499	$5.00
$500 and up	$10.00

Please use the following increments when bidding and/or assigning reserves to consignments. Lots are sold to the highest bidder at one advance over the second highest bid. EFOCC reduces non-conforming bids to the next lower increment. For example, a bid of $39.50 will be entered as $39.00.

Special Bidding Instructions

As the EFOCC auction is a small auction, special instructions cannot be easily accommodated. EFOCC cannot accept "BUY" bids, nor "INCREASE BY...%" bids. Please, make your final, best, and highest bid and you will get the lot at the lowest price available.

Bidders' Payments

A 10% buyer's premium is added to the hammer price of each lot. Buyers pay postage, plus insurance on lots valued at over $10.00.

Payment is due upon receipt of invoice. If you will be out of town for a while just after an auction closes, or are moving to your summer home about that time, please let EFOCC know at the time you place your bids.

Returning Lots

Within five (5) days of receipt of awarded lots, you may return any lot which is not described correctly provided such lot is still in its original condition. If an expertizing certificate is a condition of bidding, please inform EFOCC of this before auction closes.

One Final Request

Please bid generously on donation lots whose monies go entirely to the benefit of the EFOCC.
